

MANY PEOPLE ARE BUYING OWN HOMES

House Shortage for Rental Purposes Believed Responsible for Real Estate Activity.

RECORD PRICES ARE PAID

Exchange of Property Ownership Results in Additional Work For Contractors.

Unprecedented activity in real estate activity in this city has been the matter of much comment during the last few weeks, and those who have given some attention to the situation declare that the scarcity of rental property is responsible in a large degree for the large number of local people who are buying their own homes. For more than a year good rental property has been scarce and those who can make satisfactory arrangements are solving their troubles by buying their own homes and then they are assured that they will not face the inconvenience and expense of moving in case the houses then rent are sold.

Many people who have rented property for years have purchased their own homes or are making arrangements to assume ownership of property in the near future. The real estate activity is reflected in the business that is done by the building and loan associations here which figure in many of the home buying propositions. A representative of one building and loan association stated that loans have been made to quite a number of prospective home buyers during the last month and that in each case the scarcity of rental property was the cause for the investment.

The building and loan plan makes it possible for a family to buy their own home with part of the payment in the cash and the balance carried in the associations to be paid like rent. The payments are made weekly and the stockholder also shares in the dividends which are divided twice a year. These associations make very liberal terms as they are conducted for the benefit of the stockholders. The only restriction is that the loan shall be amply secured for the protection of the other stockholders.

The many changes in property ownership have also resulted in additional work for contractors and carpenters. Many of those who have bought homes have made some changes so that the appearance and arrangement will be to their liking.

The matter of organizing a home building association has been discussed for several months and while several plans have been considered a definite program has not been mapped out. The chamber of commerce is back of the home building project and it is expected that definite plans will be formulated within a few months. Meanwhile the building and loan associations are in a position to handle much of this business and are accommodating scores of people who desire to invest their savings in a home.

CHINESE THINK SHANTUNG LOST

See No Hope For Return of Important Peninsula By Japan Under Present Agreements.

AMERICA IS REGARDED HIGHLY

C. C. Chen, Ph. D. Makes Instructive Address at First Baptist Church Monday Evening.

Japan will never return Shantung to China unless compelled to do so by the united urging of the great western nations, the United States, England and France. This opinion was expressed by C. C. Chen, Ph. D., in response to a question at the close of his address at the First Baptist Church Monday evening. Mr. Chen has spent the past six years studying and teaching at Brown and Yale Universities, and stopped in Seymour on his return trip to China to take up his work of teaching in the Shanghai Baptist College.

Japan seeks to control China, he said. They now control the peninsula of Korea and with the Shantung peninsula in their power they will control absolutely the entrance to Peking the Chinese capital and could capture the city at any time they choose. At present China is helpless, but she feels very keenly the loss of Shantung which they regard as nothing less than robbery under the guise of an international agreement. China looks to the United States for help but realizes that England and France are supporting Japan's claim on account of secret treaties made during the war.

"During the last ten years, the world has witnessed immense changes in China. The terms 'sleeping lion' is by no means adequate to characterize China today. The revolution of 1911 by one stroke overthrew the monarchical government 4,000 years old. In place of it we have now a republican form of government. Although it is struggling desperately for its existence, it will conquer and it will stay. Along with the governmental reforms, our social structure as well as our individual life has also undergone a tremendous evolution. If we trace back to the causes of these changes, we thinking Chinese would recognize at once that the missionary efforts of the last century have contributed more than any other western influence toward bringing such reforms. In every walk of life men with christian character are needed today. History has proved that religion is the source of power. We have Confucianism, but it is not regarded as religion but only teaching of ethics," he said.

ANOTHER HEARING SET FOR TOMORROW

Taxing Units in Jackson County Required to Show Why They Need Increased Revenues.

REVIEW BY STATE TAX BOARD

Levies Proposed by Township Trustees Placed on File in Office of County Auditor.

Officials of taxing units in Jackson county who believe they will need more revenue in 1920 than was collected this year have been notified that they must appear before the state board of tax commissioners tomorrow and explain in detail why more money will be required. The hearings before the state board began today and will continue until September 25. After the evidence is reviewed by the commissioners, decision will be given as to whether or not the proposed levies will stand.

There is much confusion among taxing officials as to what attitude the state board will take when petitions for increased revenue are filed. One section of the law provides that the revenue to be raised in 1920 shall not exceed that of this year unless a petition is filed by the taxing officials and the state board rules that the increased revenue is absolutely necessary for the proper and efficient conduct of the business of such unit. Another section of the law provides

SENTIMENT IN FAVOR OF GENERAL STRIKE GROWING

United Hebrew Trades in Boston Ready to Aid The Striking Policemen.

By United Press

Boston, September 16—Sentiment in favor of a general strike in sympathy of the striking police was growing in Boston today. The United Hebrew trades of the city with a total membership of 30,000 workers voted to walk out if the Central Labor Union called a general strike. Other unions voting on the strike question gave unmistakable signs that they are in favor of such action. It is reported that a strike call would be left entirely to the discretion of the Central Labor Union.

Troops to Corpus Christi.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 16—Governor Hoby at noon today issued orders for the immediate movement of 150 Texas national guardsmen to Corpus Christi to assist in work of relieving the hurricane sufferers. Additional state troops will probably be ordered to the stricken coast country during the afternoon. Rangers have already been sent to Corpus Christi.

RELIEF TRAIN TO CORPUS CHRISTI

Houston and Galveston Send Food and Medical Supplies to Storm Stricken District.

TRAIN SERVICE IMPAIRED

One Report States 120 Bodies Are Removed From Bay at Corpus Christi—City Is Wrecked.

By United Press

Houston, Tex., September 16—A relief train bearing nurses, physicians and medical and food supplies left here today in charge of the brigadier general of the Texas national guard. The cities of Galveston and Houston co-operated in outfitting the train. The party planned to proceed from the limit of rail traffic to Corpus Christi in automobiles and wagons.

At least fifteen bodies have been recovered from the bay at Corpus Christi, according to dispatches received at Dallas, early today, following the terrific tropical storm Sunday. Fifty persons, including thirty-five soldiers in a convalescent camp are missing. Property damage in the Corpus Christi district is estimated at $3,000,000.

One report said that 120 bodies had been taken from the bay at Corpus Christi. The tidal wave was driven inland by a gale of sixty-five miles an hour.

Water was ten feet deep in the city's streets. Corpus Christi was under martial law today. The wrecked parts of the city, including its two main streets, were segregated to prevent looting. Soldiers from the military posts were aiding in carrying for the 3,000 homeless.

Details of the storm reaching here today over crippled wires unfolded the story of the loss of scores of lives and millions of dollars worth of property. Corpus Christi and the vicinity were the hardest hit by the waves and wind. Reports regarding the number of dead there varied from twenty to 200. Seventy bodies have been recovered according to a message to the mayor of Sinton in which an appeal for aid was made.

A tidal wave driven inland by a sixty-mile an hour gale wrought the havoc. Preparations were made to rush food supplies, medical aid and other assistance to the sufferers. Red Cross headquarters in St. Louis will direct the relief work.

One report entirely unconfirmed was that fifty bodies had been recovered near Robstown, Tex., and five hundred persons are missing. Citizens of Corpus Christi sent Dr. Rinehart to Vanallen, the nearest flooded point which maintained communication with the outside world to appeal for assistance. It was not until he reached Vanallen that officials here realized the severe damage the storm caused.

WILSON INVADES JOHNSON'S STATE

President Eliminates Shantung Issue From Treaty Speeches Along Pacific Coast.

NEWSPAPER MAN KILLED

Automobile Carrying Correspondents at Portland Turns Over—Two Men Injured.

United Press Staff Correspondent (By Hugh Baile)

Aboard President's Train, Sept. 16—California, home state of Senator Johnson, who is on tour in opposition to the peace treaty, will be entered today by president Wilson in his campaign for ratification.

The president will meet his first California crowds this afternoon his train being scheduled to cross the line into that state about 12:30 p. m. (Pacific time.)

It was considered unlikely that there would be rear platform speeches, as Wilson is saving his voice for his efforts in the big California cities. His voice seemed to show some evidences of a slight strain at the beginning of his Portland speech last night, but as he talked it improved and grew stronger.

Shantung has not been touched upon by the president since he reached the Pacific coast. It is not of the principle points of opposition attack and it was expected Wilson would fully explain his viewpoint of it in California where the Japanese question is alive. He mentioned it in several middlewestern speeches.

Wilson in recent speeches has seemed to be addressing his remarks principally to those senators who oppose the treaty, as well as to their constituents. At Portland last night he said flatly he had no respect for some of his opponents, but with regard to others, he said: "I pray God that the gentlemen who are delaying this thing may presently see it in a different light."

The body of Ben F. Allen, of Cleveland, one of the newspaper correspondents, who was killed in an automobile accident at Portland yesterday, is being sent home in charge of a secret service man.

Robert T. Small, one of the injured newspaper men, was able to continue the trip. Stanley Reynolds of Baltimore was left behind in the Good Samaritan hospital with a fractured arm and shoulder.

CROWD OF 8000 HEARS JOHNSON AT DES MOINES

Bolshevism Is Theme of Senator in Opposing Ratification of League of Nations.

By United Press

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 16—Ratification of the league of nations covenant may mean establishment of a British world, according to Senator Hiram Johnson. The senator, after speaking in Des Moines last night from the same platform on which President Wilson argued for the league, was to resume the executive's trail at Sioux Falls, S. D., today.

A crowd of 8,000 heard Johnson. The prolonged cheers which have greeted him before were silenced in tears last night. The senator solemnly talked of the mothers who have appealed to him to help bring soldiers back from Siberia.

Johnson's theme was bolshevism, which the president here urged should be cured by the covenant.

"Bolshevism is bred in the hearts of women whose sons went to fight Germany and who have been shot down in Siberia," Johnson said.

"When men in power violate the constitution they become breeders of bolshevism," he said, asserting the purposes of the military activity in Russia were unknown.

Senator Borah who was scheduled to appear here with Johnson, was recalled to Washington by Senator Lodge to aid in the fight on the peace treaty, and was unable to appear.

STRIKES.

The strike mania has become epidemic in the United States. Many classes of employed people are leaving their work on the slightest provocation. Some of the walkouts have been ordered for alleged reasons which would justify nothing more than a complaint. The differences could have been easily and satisfactorily adjusted. But the strike mania is here and it is regarded by some as a panacea for economic and social ills. And without regard of the consequences the walkouts are ordered.

If strikes ever were of useful service they fail in their value when they become a diversion. A strike is a drastic means to accomplish a desired purpose. At best it works an injustice to all parties concerned. The striking policemen in Boston did not have the support or the sympathy of the Boston public. A strike fails flatly unless it has public cooperation. The Boston policemen recognized that they had made a grave mistake and voted to return to work, but the police commissioner took the view that the men deserted their posts of duty and has announced that their places will be filled by others.

At noon Saturday two thousand ship yard workers left their employment because they wanted a forty-four hour week schedule with Saturday afternoon as a holiday. They returned Monday morning as usual but to their amazement they found that they had lost their places. Men in all classes of labor are entitled to fair compensation for their work. They are needed and the work must be done, but if their demands and requirements become too harsh and severe their employers are unable to maintain the factories. There is a limit for which the public can pay for manufactured articles and when that limit is reached demand is curtailed. That can result in only one thing—reduced production and smaller working forces. This is already indicated in some lines.

The high cost of living will not be solved by extravagant increases in cost of production. This is an element to be considered the same as exorbitant profits and illegal stock selling. It is time that the public, both employer and employee, is looking at the situation in a business like way. The occasion is one for deliberative judgment. It is the hour for the manifestation of the purest spirit of patriotism. The spirit of the times is to give each individual what is justly and rightly due him. This principle can only be worked out in the spirit of co-operation and harmony.

The foreign labor problem is one that must get serious attention in the near future. Much of the labor trouble today is due to the influence of foreigners who do not even think enough of America to become naturalized citizens. In an Indiana city recently American laboring men were prevented from continuing their work because the foreigners employed at the plant decided that the conditions did not suit them. Yet America is a first heaven to these very immigrants, who are saving enough money so they can return to their native lands and spend the declining days of their life in idleness. And it is likely that there are working among them paid imported agitators whose mission it is to corrupt and destroy American interests and American institutions. The United States has always extended the welcoming hand to foreigners who came to this country to become substantial citizens and to support American principles of equal government. The time is near, however, when the government must decide who remains and who leaves. The sooner the undesirables are loaded on European bound ships the better it will be for this country.

"This power is only found in Christianity. I believe Christianity will save China. The revolution of 1911 was led by Dr. Sun Yoh Sun, a Christian patriot. At present China is represented at the peace conference in France by C. T. Wang, a strong member of Chinese peace delegation whose Christian character is well known.

"The influence of Christianity upon our soul life has been equally great. Christianity has elevated our womanhood to the same level with men.

"It is gratifying to note that a systematic modern course of study was first offered to our Chinese women by the mission schools. The progress along this line has been so rapid that our Chinese girls are able to take the competitive governmental examinations with the boys in every branch of knowledge. Today you will find a dozen of these successful candidates coming to this country every year. They live and study in your colleges in the same way your girls and boys would do although the number is small but is significant. Through the influence of the Christian missionary the bad customs of foot binding, concubinage and superstitions of various sorts are rapidly and steadily decreasing. In short, I say with satisfaction and gratitude, that whenever a Chinese family has been under the influence of Christ, the domestic life of that family is always happier. Educational, Christian missionaries have done a piece of monumental work in China.

"America is a great country—great in materialism as well as in idealism. America has sent out armies of men and women to foreign lands to fight for justice and righteousness in time of peace as well as in time of war. Today this is the only nation in the world with clean hands and with clear conscience, and naturally China looks to that nation for council and for help in this critical hour. To me unless China is Christianized during this period of reconstruction, world peace will not be finally established. China has been taught by the deeds of other aggressive nations to believe that might may constitute right. China looks to Christian America to help discredit this belief. This can be done most quietly yet effectively by sending more Christian workers to China and by supporting liberally mission establishments. The day will come when 400,000,000 people will hail in one voice that America has made the world safe for democracy."

Mr. Chen's address was heard with great interest.

PETITIONS OF LOCAL TAXING UNITS ARE CONSIDERED

State Board Expects State Wide Cry for Increased Funds For Coming Year.

By United Press
Indianapolis, Sept. 16—Sitting in the fourth and last session of the year, the state board of tax commissioners today started hearing petitions of local taxing units for increases in levies.

The commissioners expected a state-wide cry for increases. School townships in practically every part of the state are asking permission to increase their revenues. One cause for this was said to be higher salaries for teachers and another was the general increased cost of school materials. All the hearings will be conducted in the state house.

Asserts New Discovery Brings Blessed Relief To Rose and Hay Fever Sufferers

Can Make It Yourself At Home At Trifling Expense

In spite of all the doubters and scoffers, a man in Kentucky, who changed his annoying and distressing hay fever into less than a mild cold, claims most emphatically that if taken in time hay fever can be conquered or at least made so harmless that it is not even bothersome.

He gave his discovery to scores of other sufferers with the most remarkable results and has recently been prevailed upon to dispense it through pharmacists to all hay fever sufferers who still have faith that nature has provided an effective remedy for this common yet miserable disease. And best of all this remedy costs almost nothing. Get a one ounce bottle of Mentholized Arcline at any drug store, pour the contents into a pint bottle and fill the pint bottle with water that has been boiled.

Then gargle as directed and twice daily sniff or spray each nostril thoroughly.

That's all there is to it; so simple that a lot of people will say that it can't do the work; but oftentimes simple natural remedies are the best as you will find after using.

If you will make up a pint and use it for a week or ten days you need not be surprised if your unwellcome yearly visitor fails to appear.

The Man of The Hour....

You know him,—at least you have heard about him and you will hear more of him.

He's the sort of fellow who as a young man laid out his scheme of life and followed it through.

During the war he put his money into Liberty bonds instead of squandering it with so-called "good fellows."

He saved his money and is a national asset not a public liability. He is a saver of money, of vitality, of self respect.

He has faith in himself and in his country. He banks on the future. So he knows he must bank in the present.

He saves what he can each week. He saves regularly and watches it grow. He cannot help succeeding because he has the habit of saving systematically.

His savings placed in our savings department bring him 3 per cent. interest. His regular checking account has careful attention at our bank. His valuable papers are absolutely safe in our fireproof, burglar-proof vault.

Let us talk over with you our facilities for handling your banking business as well as his.

ITALIAN GOVERNMENT TO SUPPRESS D'ANNUNZIO

Troops Follow Officers in Fiume Because They Thought Action Had Been Ordered.

By United Press

Rome, September 16—The government's first move towards the suppression of Gabrielle D'Annunzio's adventure in Fiume will be directed by General Badoglio, deputy chief of staff. An official statement announced today that immediately upon his arrival in Fiume he will issue a proclamation inviting D'Annunzio's followers to return to "their regiments. De Annunzio's forces total 2,600, it was stated today, most of whom automatically followed their officers because they were told the government favored the Fiume coupe. British and American troops have embarked for Fiume. The French contingent has returned to their base.

WATER SUPPLY IS LOW DUE TO EXTENDED DROUGHT

Wells in Some Places in Western Part of County Are Dry—Small Streams Disappear.

The water supply in some places in the western part of the county has disappeared or is very low, due to the long extended drought. It has been weeks since a heavy, general rain has fallen and the surface wells are showing the effect of the drought. During the last two months there have been local shows but these were of little value in replenishing the water supply as the ground absorbed the moisture rapidly.

The rivers and creeks are lower than they have been for months. Some of the small streams have entirely disappeared. In a few places, stock men declare that the water supply for their live stock is becoming serious.

Farmers assert that the ground is too hard and dry for wheat plowing to progress satisfactorily and this condition may result in a smaller wheat acreage than many farmers had planned. They say that seed cannot be sown with the ground in its present condition.

However, wheat in this vicinity is not sown before the first to the fifteenth of October and the fall rains are expected to set in before that time.

"YANKEE DOODLE IN BERLIN" WITNESSED BY BIG CROWDS

Majestic Theater Has Big Attendance at Matinee and Night—To Be Repeated Tonight.

"Yankee Doodle in Berlin," a comedy, was shown before big audiences at the matinee and at the night performances at the Majestic theater yesterday. Two Americans, assisted by a Belgian girl who was captured by the Germans, are pictured in the play as securing important war documents from the German headquarters. The captured orders are made known to the allies and as a result the enemy is defeated and crushed. The war setting, however, is used only to permit the American soldiers who poses as a dancer to play his part before the former kaiser and the German general staff. Many ludicrous situations are developed in the comedy. The same picture will be shown at the Majestic again tonight. Special music is furnished by the orchestra for the photoplay.

KENTUCKY MAN ASKS HELP FOR SERBIANS

AFTER a month's investigation of conditions in Serbia and a survey of Serbia's man-power, Lieutenant Colonel Edgar E. Hume, Frankfort, Ky., an army officer, heading the American commission for relief service in the Balkans, has recommended that the American Red Cross continue its work there for at least another year.

"The hospitals need help most desperately," he reports. "If assistance is to come it must come promptly; and if it is to come promptly it must proceed from American sources. The need for rubber is very great and surgeons are forced to operate without the protection of rubber gloves even in the most infectious cases. Soap is another essential that has disappeared. The lack of laundry soap makes clean linen almost impossible. By continued washing with caustics, the hospital linens have worn out and cannot be replaced. The most necessary medicines are no longer in the hospital stores."

To assist in relieving the distressing situation in Budapest, the American Red Cross recently ordered the shipment of a trainload of medical and surgical supplies from its warehouse in Belgrade.

The train will carry American hospital equipment at all times—soaps, hospital garments and dietary foods—and will be in charge of an American Red Cross staff. As in many parts of Eastern Europe, the Red Cross work of relief will be done in co-operation with the feeding program undertaken by the American Relief Administration.

Colonel Hume also appeals to the American people for the relief of the orphans of Serbia, numbering half a million. He recommends an extension of this particular Red Cross activity which, due to the limited number of foreign workers, includes only a small proportion of the fatherless and motherless children of this country.

Sardinia's Uncultivated Land.

Sardinia was formerly one of the principal granaries of Carthage and afterward of Rome, but today the population is centered in villages and a large part of the arable land remains uncultivated. Throughout the slopes and valleys of the mountain districts agriculture is most primitive in its character.

MAHRENHOLZ SURE OF TOTAL SUCCESS

Evansville Man Confident Trutona

Soon to Relieve His Troubles.

Evansville, Ind., September 15.—"I had to lay off from work recently but I'm going back on the job again next Monday morning," John Mahrenholz, residing in Benninghoff avenue, said recently. "I believe Trutona is going to entirely relieve me of my troubles," he added.

"I've had a severe case of rheumatism for the past four or five years. My leg muscles would often cord up in knots as big as eggs under by knees. I had the same trouble with my collar bone. Large lumps frequently formed on my temples and hurt me so badly I couldn't bear to wear my hat.

"I knew of several people who had been benefited by Trutona and then I decided to try it. My improvement certainly has been rapid. The knotty formations under my knees have disappeared and the lumps on my temples don't bother me any more. I can wear my hat without pain now. I'm glad to publicly thank Trutona and I recommend it to all."

Trutona quickly expels the impurities from the system, rebuilds worn nerves and tissues. Trutona is well named the perfect tonic, because it rapidly tones up the entire system, making healthy life-loving men and women of people who formerly were weak, run down and ill.

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Seymour at W. L. Federmann's Drug Store.

that the total tax of any unit cannot exceed $1.50 per hundred dollars without special permission of the board. Whether or not a levy exceeding $1.50 can be made if the revenue does not exceed the amount raised last year is uncertain and is one of the questions to be cleared up at the hearing.

Township trustees and taxing bodies in the corporations have been endeavoring to derive at a correct levy for their respective units and these reports have been filed with the county auditor. Some of the proposed levies appear to be exceptionally high and may be reduced by the state board. Difficulty in fixing a definite levy was experienced inasmuch as some of the rates were determined before the total valuation of taxables was computed following the last increase ordered by the board.

The rates which have been made by the advisory boards of the various townships, exclusive of state and county taxes, follow:

Grassy Fork township.....	1.25
Brownstown township.....	.79
Washington township.....	.62

Owen township.....	1.58

The proposed tax levies for Seymour and the incorporated towns in the county have also been placed on record in the auditor's office. The rate for Seymour, exclusive of county and state taxes, is given as $1.47. Of this amount, 58 cents is for school purposes; 65 cents for the civil town and four cents for the library. The township tax for city property owners is 20 cents.

Brownstown has a proposed rate of $2.05, exclusive of state and county taxes. $1.32 is made for the school, 69 cents for the civil town and four cents for library.

Crothersville is shown to have a proposed rate of $2.25, $1.25 being for school purposes and $1 for the civil town.

Medora has a rate of 38 cents for civil town purposes.

It is not known what the county and state rates, will be, as the state board has not definitely fixed them. However, local officials propose a county rate of 70 cents on the hundred dollars and the state rate may be from 18 cents to 20 cents on the hundred dollars. It is likely that the county rate may be slightly reduced unless the officials can show that the revenue that would be derived is needed to maintain the various departments of the county government.

If the present rates are permitted to stand Seymour's tax rate for all purposes would be about $2.37 for the coming year. City officials are fixing the levies thought that the rate would be less than $2.

SERIOUS FIRE IS NARROWLY AVERTED

Curtain and Blind Catch on Fire at Home of Mrs. Sam Rittenhouse on Mill Street.

A serious fire was narrowly averted at the home of Mrs. Sam Rittenhouse on Mill street Monday evening when a curtain and blind caught on fire. The fire blazed up and for a time looked as if it would be serious but members of the family succeeded in extinguishing it before any headway was gained.

Children had been playing in the room where the fire started and it is thought that they had been striking matches. The fire department was not called as members of the family had the fire out in a very short time after it was discovered.

Frank and Joe Gray, Leon Ball, Hanford Thompson and Harry Robertson of Brownstown motored to Seymour Monday evening.

WOMAN THINKS SHE IS PRIVILEGED TO TALK

"If anyone ever had a miserable stomach I surely had. It was growing worse, too, all the time. Had severe pains and attacks every ten days or two weeks and had to call a doctor, who could only relieve me for short while. Two years ago last February I took a treatment of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and I have not had a spell of pain or misery since. My friends just wonder that I am looking so well. I feel I am privileged to talk about it." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. HEAVY PROGRAM IS PLANNED FOR YEAR

mony, Rev. A. A. Stanley; New Liberty; Underwood; Woodstock, Rev. F. A. Hayward. The pastors of the association have arranged to take charge of one or more of these meetings each. These pastors will either hold the meetings or make satisfactory arrangements with the churches as to who will hold them.

The board recommended that fifth Sunday meetings be held November 30 with Bethany church, February 29 with Brownstown, May 30 with Hayden.

Plans were made recommending that each church put the "Baptist Observer" and "Missions" magazine into their church budget for the coming year so that every family may receive a copy of these periodicals. Where no church budget is made up, the board recommends the churches put on a canvass during the November meetings to put the Observer in every family.

The missionary apportionment for the coming year beginning October 1, was based on an average of thirty cents per resident member over last year. This will give the twenty-five per cent. increase which is asked by the state board and makes the church apportionments as follows:

Bethany, $60; Bethel, $104; Brownstown, $131; Clearspring, $124; Crothersville, $76; Ebenezer, $20; Hayden, $67; New Harmony, $33; New Liberty, $52; Seymour, $1,160; Tampico, $92; Underwood, $92; Uniontown, $104; Woodstock, $42; Total $2,157.

The board appointed a committee consisting of J. Robt. Blair, Rev. T. C. Smith, Rev. Roy E. Reece and the district superintendent, Rev. G. C. Mitchell, to arrange for a missionary drive in every church in the Association in some one week between

PARKER'S SQUARE DEAL
ACCESSORY HOUSE

Cor. 2nd. and Indianapolis Ave.

"Him know, him know, him know"—the words began to run through his mind in a singsong, crazy fashion—and then a passionate, merciless anger seized upon him, and the splendid six-foot bulk of the man heaved up from the chair, and, clenched fist raised, he swayed upon his feet.

They had got him! Not the way they had thought to get him—but they had got him. And he could not fight—there was no one to fight—he could only die like a trapped rat, while this Drink-House Sam laughed a thousand miles away!

"Him know, him know, him know"—the words coursed like fire through his brain. He shouted aloud, and the nails of his fingers in his clenched fist bit into the palm of his hand. He could not choke the life, as his own went out, from this devil in Singapore that he had never seen—he could only die.

The uplifted arm, as though too heavy for him, fell to his side, a ghastly whiteness spread over his face, he reeled, clutched at the skylight for support, and slipped prone upon the deck. It was the nausea upon him again.

The virulence of the attack passed after a while, but for a long time he lay where he had fallen, weak and exhausted.

He was semi-delirious when he stood up again, and hung limply against the skylight. Medicine—yes, that was what it meant—that stuff there spilled all about. He put some into his mouth. His eyes fastened on the ship's log open in front of him. What kind of a book was that? What was it doing there? Had he been reading? He couldn't read when he was sick.

It was very strange. No; he remembered now, he had been writing in it. Whenever any of the crew died he wrote it down in the book.

And now the crew was all dead, and he would be dead, too, very soon; therefore he should also write his own name down while he could still write. He remembered it all perfectly now—that was what the book was for.

He lurched forward and picked up the fountain pen from where it had rolled into a broken package of powdered quinine. He lurched again heavily as he leaned over the book. A nervous twitch of his hand gouged the pen-point into the page and left a blot. He shook his head in a gravely puzzled way.

It was queer that the pen wouldn't write as it had written before; it seemed to travel all over the page, and—he paused, his hand going to his eyes again—it was strange that he couldn't think of his own name!

He was first mate, he knew that; but—yes, his name came back to him now. He wrote on laboriously. He finished the entry, dropped the pen, and stared at what he had written, nodding his head.

"Died today, S. Wallen, first mate." He read the words aloud, and nodded his head again. It was true, quite true. When that damnable sun that was tormenting him through the awning was gone, that would be the end of today and he would be dead.

His eyes strayed forward along the deck—and widened with a dawning fear. What were those shapes there? He began to mumble to himself, and suddenly shrieked out aloud. It was a horror ship.

He shrieked aloud, rushed to the rail, and in the delirium of his mind crouched low to hide himself from this dead throng that raved like demons for medicine, ran screaming forward to where the ship's boat bumped monotonously in its rise and fall against the vessel's hull.

He hurled himself over the side, cast the boat loose, and snatching at the oars began pull like a madman away from the ship. Two hundred yards out he stood up and shook both fists and yelled tauntingly—they could not reach him now. But why not? Suppose they should swim after him! He flung himself to the sea again and plied the oars furiously.

And then slowly the strokes lessened, and presently an oar fell from his grasp, and after that, with a moan, he pitched forward into the bottom of the boat—and all was blackness.

CHAPTER II.

On the Road to Pobi.

"Mon," expostulated the Scotch trader, "but you're fair daft! You're but out of the jaws of death, and I'd say you're all the way out at that. Bide a bit, there'll be anither in a month—or in two, anyhow."

Wallen, standing in the center of the little galvanized-iron-roofed storehouse, his eyes on the native who had entered a moment before, shook his head.

"I've got to get away, MacKnight," he said earnestly. "There's no use talking about it. What kind of a ship does he say it is?"

MacKnight flung out a question in the native tongue.

"He says it is a big smoke-boat," translated the trader, "which will be by way of saying it's some measly steam coaster that's so small it's no able to accommodate its own cockroaches, d'ye mind! Mon, pay no attention to it. What's anither month or so—and you'll be strong then, and—ah, mon, but I hate to have ye go!"

Wallen, gaunt and thin from his illness, shook his head decisively again, though the other's words had brought a quick responsive smile to his lips.

Six weeks ago a proa from the village here had picked him up at sea and brought him, as it were, to this big-hearted man's door. He owed his life to MacKnight.

"It's no use, MacKnight," he answered. "I've got to go."

"It'll be that black devil in Singapore!" ejaculated the trader, screwing up his wizened face and pulling viciously at his beard. "You'll no play the fool, Wallen. It's not fit you are to go. Listen to me, mon: it's a matter o' twenty miles across the island as ye know well, and no conveyance ye mind. And it's no regular trader that's called, for none is due—she'll have put in for water or the like, and will be sailing again at daybreak."

"I can make it by daybreak, MacKnight," Wallen stated quietly.

For a moment MacKnight stared at Wallen, then his hands dropped from Wallen's shoulders.

"Well, go, and be damned to you, then!" he said gruffly, deep down in his throat to hide his emotion—and, turning, stepped abruptly outside.

There were not many preparations to make—very few.

Wallen's worldly possessions were his only through the generosity of the trader. But MacKnight did not stop at that now, for, five minutes later, as Wallen started for the night's tramp across the island, a Malay guide, well loaded with supplies, started with him, while MacKnight cursed with earnest profanity as they wrung each other's hand.

At the edge of the clearing Wallen looked back. On the great bearded figure that leaned against the door frame of the solitary trading station Wallen's eyes lingered.

The man waved his hand and shouted:

"Mon, ye'll no forget MacKnight o' Arru! Ye'll no forget MacKnight, mon!"

And then suddenly a mist dimmed Wallen's eyes. He tried to shout back—and could only wave his own hand in return. And then the trees hid the trader from view.

Forget MacKnight! The man who had nursed him back to life as a mother would nurse her child! Forget that solitary human outpost of civilization—a man with an iron fist, a barbed-wire tongue and a heart as tender as a woman's! No; he would not forget MacKnight!

He forced a smile to his lips. One made strange friendships in these far parts of the world, and made them under strange circumstances. The chances were a thousand to one that he and MacKnight would never meet again—but, for all that, it was a friendship that would last.

Twenty miles across the island before daybreak!

Wallen fell to wondering what sort of a ship and, more pertinent still, what sort of a skipper was on the ship that had put into Pobi. He had refused MacKnight's offer of an advance of money, and he hadn't a penny—but he was satisfied that he would not be refused passage in any case. He could work his way.

A white man who knew his business was worth his weight in gold on a ship any time in these parts. It was true he wasn't any too fit yet; but he was fit enough for that, fit enough—a dull flush came into his face, and his eyes hardened—fit enough to get to Singapore somehow!

He had not forgotten that ghastly afternoon in the reek of the pest ship, nor the Chinaman who had died in his arms whispering of Drink-House Sam of Singapore! Forget! He had thought of nothing else all these weeks, raved of it in his delirium, so MacKnight had told him.

There was one thing dominant in his life now—Drink-House Sam of Singapore, the man who had tried so mysteriously to take his life, to stab at him treacherously, without warning, out of the dark.

Singapore!—Singapore! It was never out of his mind now. To get there, to force the truth, the motive, the reason, the story behind all this from the human spider that lurked in his web, and then—his fists clenched fiercely—and then settle with the man himself!

And that was why he must get to Pobi before daybreak, before this steamer sailed.

He walked on steadily, without sense of fatigue, his mind abnormally active. And then, with a little shock of surprise, as the Malay made signs to halt and set about kindling a fire, he noticed for the first time that it had grown almost dark.

And also, to his surprise, he noticed that where he had experienced no fatigue before, he was, as he sat down, suddenly grateful for the rest.

He scowled a little over his dipper of tea that the Malay had prepared—and rubbed his leg muscles vigorously. They twitched nervously as he put his weight upon his legs. That was bad!

His lips set grimly. Well, bad or not, they'd have to take him across the island before daybreak!

They started on again.

An hour went by, and he was obliged to rest—and after another start and many more after that, to rest again and again with alarming frequency. And, worse still, his progress when he was walking kept growing less and less.

It was black in the tropical forest.

He could see nothing, and he stumbled constantly in the vines and creepers that everywhere overgrew the path. He was at last forced to admit that he was not making much more than a mile an hour, and twenty miles at a mile an hour was—he groaned.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our appreciation to all those who contributed, in any manner, to our comfort at the burial of our uncle and brother, Silas Schmitt. We thank Rev. C. W. Whitman for his words of comfort, the quartet who sang and the undertaker; especially do we thank the Knights of Pythias for their kindness and attention during his long illness and for their beautiful service at the grave.

These kindnesses we will always remember.

The Family.

WAR RISK BUREAU MAKES RED CROSS CLEARING HOUSE FOR COMMUNITY PROBLEMS

THE American Red Cross was officially designated as the clearing medium for all community problems of service men at a recent conference, at Washington, of the fourteen national welfare agencies with Director Cholmeley-Jones, of the War Risk Insurance Bureau. The future policy will be one of closer co-operation between these agencies and the Red Cross for the government bureau, with a view to avoiding congestion and duplication of effort.

Experience having demonstrated that the Red Cross Home Service sections are widespread and thoroughly trained in the regulations and methods of the Bureau, Director Cholmeley-Jones thought it best that the Red Cross should become the clearing agency through which all complaints and inquiries regarding the difficulties of service men should pass.

Most of the representatives agreed heartily with this plan, and in the future all community problems of service men will be cleared through local Home Service sections. The Red Cross will make available to the various agencies blanks and forms which have been prepared in co-operation with the War Risk Bureau. Replies in all cases will be returned by the Red Cross to the original inquirer, through the organization which handled it primarily.

Represented at the conference were: The Young Men's Christian Association, Veterans of the World War, American Library Association, American Red Cross, Boy Scouts of America, Jewish Welfare Board, Salvation Army, Knights of Columbus, National Catholic War Council, National Tuberculosis Society, American Legion, American Jewish Relief, and the War Camp Community Service.

This increased responsibility places upon the Red Cross a new challenge and calls for an unlimited amount of team play.

CHARGES WILSON CHANGES HIS FOREIGN POLICY

Senator Sherman Says Hitchcock Was Advocate of Neutrality Early in War.

By United Press
Washington, September 16—President Wilson and his "echoes" in the senate have repeatedly changed position on the United States foreign policy, Senator Sherman, Illinois, declared today. Sherman, speaking on the senate floor, said President Wilson and Senator Hitchcock were both strong advocates of neutrality in foreign quarrels and demanded that this country keep out of foreign quarrels about the time the Lusitania was sunk, but now insist upon an entirely different policy.

"O. K."
These letters are believed to have originated with John Jacob Astor, the first of the Astors, who was everywhere known as a very reliable business man and was often consulted by other business men as to the worth or standing of some business men or house. If a particular inquiry came to him about some trader and he wanted to indicate that he was all right, he wrote across the note O. K. With him the initials stood for "All Correct" and in this sense they are used today.

Hermit Foodless Nine Days.
At Armidale, New South Wales, a man, known locally as a hermit, who was found at the bottom of a gorge 2,000 feet deep, stated that he had been foodless for nine days and had been suffering from influenza. He was extirpated with difficulty and is now recovering.

Grand Finale.
Promoter (concluding his favorite oration)—I tell you, sir, there's millions in my scheme! The stockholders will double their money in one year. Why, if I only had twenty thousand—Conservative Capitalist (interrupting)—Names on your sucker list?

Flour is Cheap

Contrary to popular opinion, flour is far from the most expensive item in your loaf of bread. Cost of labor, overhead, distribution, etc., is what prohibits 5 cent bread.

Colonial Flour

is the cheapest food one can buy.
